Writers Criticise Failure of Equitable

sure Its Building.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-As a policyholder in the Equitable Life Assurance Society I am naturally interested in the management of said society. I tearned with considerable dismay this morning that there was no fire insurance covering this property. and Mr. Day, the president, declares that the policyholders have not sustained any loss by reason of the de-struction of the building by fire. I believe I can safely express the opinion I believe I can safely express the opinion of many policyholders in disputing this statement with him, and also criticising the person to blame for not having this property insured against fire. It is parfectly absurd to contend that a building appraised by the city for over two million dollars has no insurable or rentable value and that its destruction does not entail a financial loss upon the owners. * * * F. SUBWAY SITUATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-Can you discover the real reason for the subway muddle? Is it because of in-

That precipitate procedure is hard to explain except as a panic of personal political fear, plain pinheadedness; overstrain and impattence or a poker bluff. In any case, it has caused great delay, waste and loss and a continuation means subway disaster for a generation.

pression that the Interborough has been high handed and dictatorial, in the knowledge that it holds a good hand; that it is juggling with figures to deceive the city out of excessive profits, and that it has not been ready to assist public officials and show due public spirit. If these things are true, although no one mistakes a business corporation for a charitable organization, the management of the Interborough is not wise nor broad nor clever, but is profoundly asinine.

As to the public press:—It is not fair to hammer one head all the time when there are others at hand equally deserving of
